TESTIMONY OF DR. H. K. YAGGI CLOSES THE CASE AGAINST HOSPITAL MANAGEMENT

High School Auditorium Is Overcrowded to Hear Continuation of Salem's Most Noted Case

DEFENSE WILL OPEN NEXT SATURDAY EVENING

It is estimated more than 1500 persons attended the adjourned hearing of charges against the city hospital management last evening at the High School auditorium, which was filled to seating capacity with standing room at a premium. Even the corridors were crowded with eager listeners who craned their necks to hear the testimony given.

Intense interest was shown by the spectators for the big crowd remained until the finish of the hearing and those who had stood for several hours were reluctant to give up their standing space and leave.

Perhaps the most important testimony given in which the most interest was shown was that of Dr. H. K. Yaggi. Throughout the reading of the paper and the cross-examination there was manifested the closest attention to every word spoken.

Dr. Yaggi was the last witness to testify, and following this his cross-examination by Attorney Hahn, of Youngstown, was very brief. In fact the cross-questioning of all the witnesses last evening did not bring out any very important features in addition to the direct testimony.

There were 11 witnesses who testified at last evening's hearing, eight of whom were persons who had been patients in the hospital. The other three witnesses were physicians, two from the county and the third being Dr. Yaggi.

At the conclusion of the hearing it was decided by the board members to hold the next session Saturday evening at 7 o'clock at the High School auditorium. With the closing of the session last evening the prosecution closed its side of the case.

Dr. J. A. Mellon, of Columbiana, was the first witness called. He gave as one of his observations of the mismanagement of the local hospital that the pupil nurses were not properly trained and that they were put in charge of cases when they were not yet competent. It was also pointed out that some of them did "not know how to thread a needle;" that they did not know where to get sponges, gloves or instruments. Dr. Mellon testified that some of the student nurses at the hospital stated that it was hard to get supplies and that some of them did not know the difference between sizes 7 and 8 of the gloves. He stated that it was his opinion it was up to the hospital management to "make it go or quit."

Dr. Mellon cited a maternity case of which he had charge at the hospital. Following the birth of the child Dr. Mellon stated that he had objected to the diet which was being given the patient. He also stated that following the removal of the baby from the hospital to its home, a few days after birth, it broke out in a rash and that its skin peeled off, which was supposed to have resulted from the use of a cheap soap which was used by one of the house nurses. The father of the child claimed that this was a case of criminal conduct and threatened to sue the hospital.

In the cross-examination by Attorney Hahn Dr. Mellon declared that student nurses should not be allowed in the operating room. The doctor stated also that he found at operations that the nurses were unable to find sponges, that the gloves furnished were rotten because of constant sterilization and patching, and that the towels that were used in operations were full of holes. Several times the attorney asked the witness to give names of nurses and doctors, but he refused to do so. Graduates were seldom used in the operating room here, it was stated, when at an operation there should be only graduate nurses present.

Dr. Seward Harris, of Lisbon, was the second witness. He said that Miss Templeton, as superintendent, was responsible for the hospital conditions whether or not the complaints had reached her personally. The matter of not having an oxygen tank for a patient who was at death's door was mentioned, it being said that a hunt had to be made for the tank and then the connections could not be found. Matters pertaining to alleged neglect in answering signals of the patients were brought out in the cross examination, during which Dr. Harris

ANTI-SUFFRAGE LEAGUE HAS PETITIONS OUT AGAINST WOMEN

Columbus, March 23.—Secretary of State Harvey C. Smith was officially notified by the Ohio Anti-Suffrage league that referendum petitions on the Reynolds law permitting women to vote at the presidential primaries were in circulation, and, in accordance with legal requirements, copies of the petitions were filed and were approved as to size of paper used, type and general form.

If the petitions with the necessary number of names are filed before midnight of April 19, election officials will be notified that the eynolds law has been rendered inoperative and that, in consequence, women will not vote at the primaries.

Federal ratification of equal suffrage, in that event, alone can save the day for advocates of suffrage for women.

Both Harding and Wood headquarters are going ahead on the assumption that women will ballot at the primaries, and are perfecting elaborate organizations to line up their vote.

ATTACK FEDERAL COAL CONTROL

Philadelphia, Pa., March 23.—The right of the federal government to retain control of the bituminous coal industry in the fixing of rates and the diversion of shipments under the authority of wartime legislation is attacked as illegal in two suits filed in the United States District court here late Monday.

The plaintiffs are four West Virginia coal companies and their selling agent, the Crozier Pocahontas Coal company of this city.

REMARKABLE DISPLAY OF AURORAL LIGHTS SEEN LAST NIGHT

Salem was last night visited by one of the most beautiful displays of the aurora borealis that has ever been seen in this latitude. It is reported that records do not tell of such brilliant showing of the famous northern lights in this latitude for a quarter of a century or more past.

The display began early in the evening, making itself manifest by the appearance of streamers of light arising from the northern horizon and stretching far up into the sky. Long slender beams of light, usually yellow, but changing to green and then in turn and in mixture to purple, rose and violet, filled the entire northern half of the heavens. Far up there would at times form great luminous clouds which moved majestically with a notable play of colors. Then the great clouds which were swinging and flashing in the sky would resolve themselves into sweeping curtains which swung back and forth in graceful folds clear across the heavens. The phenomenon changed form and color every minute and was a perfect kaleidoscope of beauty.

Large numbers of persons watched the beautiful sight long into the night. During the evening the great play of electric force got hold of the telegraph and telephone lines and some of the big wire systems were put clear out of commission for a time.

COURT UPHOLDS OPEN SHOP

Boston, March 23.—The open shop was upheld by the full bench of the supreme court Monday when it ordered a permanent injunction against Photo Engravers' Local and International Unions, restraining them from interfering with the business of Weight & Co., and the Folsom Engraving company. WOMAN ADMITS AIDING JAIL BREAKING PLOT

Steubenville, March 23.—The young woman known as Mrs. Anna McDonald, 17, arrested at Pittsburg and returned here to answer to a charge of aiding and abetting in the recent Jefferson county jail delivery by carrying saws in her stockings to William McDonald, one of the eight men who escaped, confessed, according to Deputy Sheriff Edward Lucas, that her real name is Miss Emma Burnett, of this city, and that she is not the fugitive's wife.

MAHONING VALLEY CAR MEN ASK INCREASE

Youngstown, March 23.—Conferences have been started between the representatives of the Mahoning valley system, including city and interurban lines here, and the representatives of the conductors and motormen, regarding the new scale proposed to go into effect April 1.

The demands of men are 70 cents an hour for beginners; 73 cents an hour for men of three months' experience, and 75 cents an hour for men of six months standing. The old rates were 43, 45 and 48 cents respectively.

No action has been taken on the proposition and the conference will continue until something definite is arrived at.

The settlement will affect 600 men, 300 in Youngstown and the others on the various lines to New Castle, Warren and Sharon.

RAISIN JACK IS POPULAR

Akron, March 23.—There are 10,000 persons engaged directly or indirectly in the manufacture of liquor in Akron, according to Judge L. S. Pardee, of the criminal bench of municipal court. The railroads have reported record imports of raisins and wholesale groceries cannot supply the demand, he said.

In sentencing a woman and her son on charges of manufacturing liquor, Judge Pardee said:

"You are two out of 10,000 people who are contributing toward making conditions in Akron worse now than they ever were."

Thirty persons were arraigned on intoxication charges in police court Monday.

LEGION FORMULATES NEW BONUS PLAN

Washington, March 23.—The executive committee of the American Legion has determined to put up to congress the proposal to pay adjusted compensation to former service men and women at the rate of $1.50 for every day service.

This action reversed a previous vote taken by the committee, which recorded state representatives in favor of the legislative committee's plan for cash relief at $1 a day, which was adopted as a substitute for the original proposal of $50 a month.

The committee's determination to boost relief followed a general review of a composite bill, which the legion will present to the house ways and means committee Wednesday including privileged land settlement, home building aid and extension of vocational training.

PRESIDENT ORDERS WAGE SETTLEMENT

Declares That Coal Commission Majority Report Must Be Basis of New Agreement

Washington, March 23.—(Special.)—President Wilson today made public a letter which he has written to the coal miners and operators in which he declares that the majority report of the bituminous coal commission is the one which the new wage agreement between the miners and operators must be based.

The president urged that the miners and the operators meet in conference at the earliest possible moment and draw a new wage agreement based on the majority report in order that the public may no longer be worried over the question of coal shortage.

The president in his letter declared that on and after April 1 all government fixed prices on coal will be suspended and that no further efforts will be made to regulate prices, he gives warning, however, to the operators against profiteering. Because the report of the commission was not unanimous it had no power to fix prices, the president stated.

TWO YOUNG MEN HELD FOR ASSAULTING GIRL WHILE OUT IN AUTO

Keziah Prosser, aged 14, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Jack Prosser, of Lisbon, went to the home of George Mason three miles west of Lisbon on the Lincoln highway Monday evening and appealed to be taken in to protect her from two young men with whom she had been riding in an automobile. The girl was hysterical. Her clothing was torn and her body bruised. She claimed that Fritz Kremser and Paul Haines, both of Salem, had asked her to take a ride and when out from town they had assaulted her. She fought and struggled, and when near the Mason home jumped from the machine, falling heavily to the ground. When the men found the girl was escaping them they drove off in their machine. Both were arrested and will be held for the charge of assault.

Paul Haines was arrested last night by Officers Gray and Davidson and was placed in the city jail. About noon today Sheriff Dalrymple came to this city in an automobile and took Haines to the county jail, to be held with Kremser on a charge of assault.

At Lisbon this afternoon Haines and Kremser when arraigned pleaded guilty and were fined $500 and costs. They were remanded to jail where they are being held pending payment. If they are not able to pay they will be sentenced to work out the amount on the county roads.

PRESIDENT MAY NOTIFY ALLIES THAT TREATY HAS FAILED

Washington, March 23.—In the absence of any authoritative prediction of what President Wilson would do with the unratified treaty with Germany, the impression gained weight in diplomatic circles Monday that the first move would be a notification to the other powers that ratification had been refused by the senate.

Diplomats holding that view point out that such a notification could be given to clarify the status of relations between the United States and the other powers, regardless of what decision the president might make later on the question of the treaty's resubmission to the senate or negotiation of a separate peace.

In some quarters it was predicted Mr. Wilson might, however, combine a notification of the treaty's failure with an announcement of his future purpose in the matter, in order that the nations that have ratified may be advised of what course they can expect developments here to take.

THE TREASON OF WOLFE

The situation which has developed at Columbus through the traitorous efforts of Robert Wolfe to injure the candidacy of Senator Harding for the Presidential nomination is one which is causing widespread indignation among the Republicans not only of Ohio but of every state where the real facts have become known. Robert F. Wolfe publishes the two leading daily papers of Columbus, the Ohio State Journal and the Columbus Dispatch. He poses as a Republican, but is in reality a Democrat at heart. Wolfe would have the people think him a loyal and discriminating Republican, but in fact he has supported but one epublican candidate in the last seventeen years, and that one was Herrick when he ran for governor.

Wolfe has three times stood strongly in support of Cox for governor and is now prominent in the Cox campaign for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency. He had promised to lend aid and support to Senator Harding in his campaign for the nomination, and in the beginning he said a few favorable things concerning him, but as soon as Harding refused to hand over to him the job of naming the Harding delegates in Ohio he began to use his influence in covert ways to injure his chances and bring him to defeat.

A specific instance of the misrepresentation which is being resorted to by the Wolfe interests to damage the Harding candidacy is found in the manner in which the Wolfe papers garbled the article which appeared in Colliers in its issue of March 7. The noted Washington correspondent and editor, Mark Sullivan, in that journal of that date in his Washington story attributed to Senator Harding many of the qualities which made McKinley great, and he declared that he is the man who is suited to meet the needs of these times. He predicted Harding's nomination. In its handling of this story the Ohio State Journal garbled it so that it conveyed the impression that Harding is the candidate of the special so-called "predatory" interests.

Ohio Republicans owe it to Senator Harding and to the party at large to rebuke overwhelmingly this mean campaign at the state capital.

THE NEWBERRY CASE

The verdict in the Newberry case hd aroused a great deal of interested speculation as to the possibilities involved. The Supreme Court has to pass on the case an dthe Senate will not likely take any action pending the decision by the highest tribunal. The case, as it is before the Senate, is in the form of a contest between Newberry and Henry Ford. There are now 49 Republicans and 47 Democrats. If Ford were to be seated the Senate would be a tie, and the deciding vote of the Democratic Vice President would give all the chairmanships to his party. So much hinges on the outcome in this case that it is daily becoming a matter of deeper public interest.

THE WOOD BACKING

The New York World yesterday came out in a long article claiming that the Presidential boom of General Leonard Wood is underwritten by a group of millionaire Republicans, of whom Dan R. Hanna, of Cleveland, is the head and promoter. It asserts that Hanna started the movement and set out to raise a fund of a million dollars to finance the boom. The World names seven other well known men of wealth besides Mr. Hanna whom it charges with having entered into this syndicate. The article in the World has aroused widespread comment, and the answer, if any, to be made by the Wood Backers, is somewhat eagerly looked for.

ALLIES NOT SURPRISED

The comment made in Allied capitals on the refusal of the United States Senate to accept the peace treaty and League covenant at President Wilson's dictation indicates no great degree of surprise, for it has for a long time been well understood that the more astute of the European statesmen never at any time had much hope that President Wilson would be able to carry out the program of literal acceptance which while in Paris he boasted his ability to bring to pass.

ROBIN IN THE CHERRY TREE

Well, a robin came and perched in the cherry tree for quite a while yesterday. It seems like a small thing but do you realize what it signifies? It definitely foretells the end of shivering in gas-equipped houses, of winter itch, of chilblains and of flu. It portends almost immediate relief from coal bills and from the oversized gas bills. It means the porch swing, with all that that implies; it means children out in kiddie cars and girls in summer dresses. And what are these we see looming large upon the near horizon? What but strawberry shortcake in all its lovely rose tints and cherry pie in all the rare beauty of a happy dream come true! All this and more, a hundredfold more of joyful experiences, that blessed bird assures us. The first robin in the cherry tree represents the line of demarcation between existence and life.—Ohio State Journal.

Advises Steaming Nose Throat, Bronchial Tubes With Antiseptic Vapor

Scotch People Say It Destroys Pernicious Germs and Purifies Air Passages

To get rid of colds and end catarrh don't take chances with drugs that depress the heart.

Do as the Scotch folk do: Get a small bottle of Haelanol at any pharmacy.

Pour a few drops into a bowl of boiling water, bend your head over the bowl and breath for three minutes the pleasant, soothing, healing, germ-killing vapor deep into the lungs.

Do this every night before going to bed and keep the membranes so healthy that the germs of flu won't have a chance. It gives wonderful relief from colds and bad catarrh and costs almost nothing says the F. T. Bennett and Treat's Drug Stores who sells lots of it.

Humidity.

Humidity is the moisture or aqueous vapor in the atmosphere. The vapor is really an invisible gas. When this vapor becomes visible it is called dew fog, mist, haze, clouds, rain, snow, hail etc., according to the size of the drops of water or the method by which the vapor condenses. A given space at a given temperature can contain only a definite amount of moisture. When a given space contains all of the moisture it is capable of holding it is said to be saturated. The percentage of moisture in the air to what it would hold if saturated is called the relative humidity. When the air is saturated with moisture the humidity would be 100 per cent, and if half saturated 50 per cent, three-quarter saturated 75 per cent. The increased humidity has much to do with the effect of the temperature on the individual, which is the reason the subject is so commonly discussed during hot periods.

Responsibilities.

Thinking of others does not excuse folks from respecting their own responsibilities. The world wouldn't get along very fast if all our time and thoughts were given to others. To get along and have the means to be helpful to others we must do considerable for ourselves. Our job must bring enough returns to the boss to pay him for the trouble of bothering with us. Our home life touches others and we must see to it that our contact leaves them happier for the touch. Life is more than mere routine however much it may seem to be cast in a one piece mold. It's our thoughts for others that lift us out of the humdrum and make life worth living. There's no limit to the enthusiasms of life when concern for another's welfare gets hold of you.

SMALL BEGINNINGS SHOW BIG RESULTS

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper.

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.

Quotations relative to Spring were given and "The hand that rounded Peter's dome and grained the aisles of Christian Rome, wrought in a sad sincerity," was the quotation favored at a meeting of Book club members Monday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

VAST RICHES IN OLD MINES

Wealth Awaits Lucky Prospector Who Can Find One, Though Many Are Known to Exist.

We are all familiar with Sir Rider Haggard's "King Solomon's Mines" nor was he by any means the first to put forward the theory, though in a romance, that many old and but half-worked mines might yet await the patient toil of the searcher. Except in cases where there had been long-continued use, it is not at all improbable that there are ancient mines ready to reward the intelligent methods of today. But now in Idaho, we are told, "the 'lost' gold mine of the Upper Salmon river district" has been rediscovered. A rich ledge had been found by two prospectors and worked by them a little; then they fell out and a Spokane policeman, who had the secret from one of them, sought the mine for 20 years; then he fell out, and now it has been found anew to enrich the finders, for the ledge proper is said to be from four to six feet wide with a rich quartz streak that shows the gold shining in its grasp. The gold has always been there and somebody for many years has believed it to be there; it only needed to be found to add another to the romances of fact.

FREIGHT CAR BROKE AWAY

Peculiar Happening Hailed as Something Particularly New in History of Railroading.

The Erie railroad has demonstrated the practicability of a theory that a freight train may lose a car from its midst and keep to its schedule with its crew in ignorance of their loss, and Ed Mott, of Goshen, the local historian, is happy.

For a generation Mott has been telling folks of an Erie train that left Susquehanna in the winter of 1855 with 15 cars of cattle. At Port Jervis one car was missing. It had disappeared from the middle of the train without leaving broken couplings or other traces of the manner of its ejectment. Two days later the missing car was found in a field near the track at Shohola. It was empty. The cattle it had held were recovered in Sullivan county, New York. They had freed themselves from the car and crossed the Delaware river on the ice.

Engineer Albert O. Roberts was driving a train to New York last Sunday morning. At West Tuxedo air brake trouble led to the discovery that the fourteenth car was missing. The thirteenth and fifteenth cars had recoupled themselves. Search led to the discovery of the missing car alongside the track a mile to the north.

The accident of Sunday was exactly the same as the one which Mott describes as of sixty-odd years ago, except that the modern form of brake caused the loss of a car to be discovered more quickly than was the case in the old days, when the couplings were of simple design and the brakes were operated by hand.—New Haven Union.

MAKES FOOD TASTE

Good—Hood's Sarsaparilla Creates an Appetite.

This great medicine enables the digestive organs to perform their functions easily, keeps the stomach sweet and relieves or prevents indigestion and other digestive troubles.

When your food does taste good it is a sign of good or returning health; shows that the blood is becoming richer, routing scrofula, eczema, rheumatism and other diseases, and that the system is being built up to overcome that tired feeling, and the prostration after influenza and fevers. The one medicine that can legitimately claim to do all this—is Hood's Sarsaparilla. If a mild laxative is needed, take Hood's Pills; an active cathartic, more Hood's Pills.

MORE OR LESS A MYSTERY

Few Seem to Know the Real Facts Concerning the So-Called Monkey of Mons.

Are you acquainted with the monkey of Mons?

An army officer brought home from Belgium a replica—a tiny silver figure with one clawish hand posed reflectively against its chin and with a look of introspection in its deepset eyes. In showing it to a friend he mentioned that, like a number of officers who had been to Mons, he carried the thing as a mascot. The friend told a woman about it, and she, being unacquainted with the monkey of Mons, asked a soldier who had been there.

"Never heard of it, but you can't judge by me, as I was only in Mons a couple of days—got great coal mines there, though."

Another soldier who had been to Mons long enough to go sightseeing was impressed mainly by the cathedral of St. Waldrup—"built in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries; Gothic architecture, and—the monkey must have been there, of course, but—"

Then the woman extended her inquiry to a private who had hobbled around Mons for two hours while waiting to get away.

"Sure I saw it! Bronze statue in a street—or maybe it was one of those gargoyle things on the church wall, but, anyhow, I saw it—at least it looked like a monkey, though I wouldn't be willing to swear to it."

Which is the why of this cry:

"Are you acquainted with the monkey of Mons?"—Washington Star

To Gas Consumers:

The monthly reading of meters is now being taken. At the residence of each consumer whose meter is missed, by reason of absence, quarantine, or otherwise, the reader has left a postal card, requesting the consumer to mark thereon the position of the hands on the dial of his meter, and mail promptly.

Under the operation of the sliding scale rate now in effect, it is important to the consumer that his meter be read each month, that he may avoid the higher steps of the sliding scale. Also, for the months in which a reading is not obtained the consumer will be billed the monthly minimum charge, so that it is to the advantage of each consumer that his meter be read regularly each month.

If for any reason the meter reader was unable to gain access to any meter, he has left one of these cards, on which the consumer can easily mark the position of the hands on the dial of the meter.

Each consumer with whom one of these cards has been left is requested, in his own interest, to mark same up and mail it promptly.

DRY LAW WORKS SAY U. S. AGENTS

PROHIBITION LEGISLATION IS GENERALLY RESPECTED, IN SPITE OF EVASIONS.

OPEN MANUFACTURE ENDED

Local Authorities Everywhere Co-operate With Federal Government-Talk of Electing Congress That Will Modify Enforcement Act.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—Nationwide prohibition has now had nearly two months' trial. According to the branch of the bureau of internal revenue that is charged with the duty of seeing that the law is enforced, the constitutional amendment and the enforcing legislation have taken hold effectively throughout the country. The government does not pretend to say that there is not an enormous traffic in intoxicating drinks being carried on surreptitiously, but it does assert that in a general way prohibition legislation is being respected. Of course, the outstanding fact is that the open manufacture of all intoxicating drinks has stopped. Throughout the length and breadth of the land wherever they existed prior to wartime prohibition the distilleries, the breweries and the wine presses have shut down.

When the new era came in, there were, of course, enormous stocks of liquors and wines on hand. Opinion as to how long these stocks will hold out differ, but the internal revenue bureau is of the opinion that there is enough stored away to last for several years. The government apparently is not going to get greatly excited over the quiet movement of these stocks. One may rest assured that it will not tolerate the manufacture of new stocks either publicly or surreptitiously, and, of course, there can be no public sale of intoxicants of any kind. This does not mean that the government intends to wink at what is commonly called bootlegging traffic in intoxicants, but it does mean that it realizes that until the stocks on hand are consumed there will be a certain amount of drinking going on.

Little Open Resistance to Law.

The internal revenue bureau reports that everywhere state, city and county authorities are faithfully co-operating with the federal government in enforcing the prohibition enactments. This hearty co-operation on the part of the local authorities has made the task of the federal government thus far comparatively easy. In the weeks that have passed since the country became bone dry under the federal amendment, there have been comparatively few arrests. The predictions that in some of the so-called wet states there would be much open resistance to the law have all proved to be without basis. The sum total of the resistance is under cover, so to speak.

Interest in the situation is now to some extent turning from the enforcement of the law to the question as to whether the legislation enacted by congress fixing the percentage of alcohol that shall constitute an intoxicating drink, and otherwise providing for the enforcement of the constitutional amendment, shall be modified at some future date. In some of the states that were not dry by state enactment before the federal amendment was adopted, there is a good deal of agitation in favor of trying to elect a congress that will revise the enforcing legislation. To what extent this will become an issue in the congressional elections this year remains to be seen. Undoubtedly in some districts it will be an issue.

Talk of State Legislation.

In a few of the states that had not banished intoxicants before the federal government took hold of the subject, there is agitation in favor of state legislation permitting the manufacture of beer and wines in spite of the federal amendment. The supporters of the federal amendment take the view that in case any state should enact a law in conflict with that of the nation, the state law would automatically become nullified. In other words the federal statue must be obeyed regardless of any state legislation that may be enacted. The lawyers for the national anti-saloon league point out that the Supreme court, whenever this question has arisen, has always held that states have no power to enact legislation which would render invalid laws passed by the congress of the United States.

Still one other question has arisen, whether a state having ratified the federal amendment can withdraw that ratification or annul it. Here again the supporters of prohibition are very positive of the assertion that the Supreme court, if the question should be brought to its attention, would hold that a state may not do this. On the whole it seems to be settled that nationwide prohibtion is here to stay. The question as to whether the enforcing legislation enacted by congress shall be modified will continue to be raised. The present congress has made its record on the subject and no one believes it could be persuaded to undo anything it has done.

HOSPITAL CASE

said that the superintendent was to blame for not properly looking after the management of the hospital and those who were under her. Certain instruments, it was stated, were not kept in a good condition.

Miss Mayer, who was the special nurse in the maternity case referred to, was next to testify and she claimed that her patient was not given the proper diet for a mother.

Miss Celesta Goodman, a practical nurse, was the next witness called, and gave her experience when she was in the hospital as a patient in 1915, having undergone an operation. She told of a number of instances in which she declared that she and her sister, who had later gone to the hospital, and a nephew, while patients at the hospital were neglected, while there.

Mrs. Earl Trotter, who had been in the hospital in November of 1919, a maternity case, was the next witness called. She said that her baby was placed in a bureau drawer and of its narrow escape from being smothered when a nurse went to close the drawer. She said also that the baby contracted scarlet fever while in the hospital and of its getting a mysterious cut on the head which she said would leave a scar for life. She also told about the laxness in answering signals and stated that she always had to wait from fifteen minutes to a half hour to get an answer.

The next testimony presented was a paper from Mrs. W. S. Marshall, who had been a patient in the hospital in October, 1919. She testified that after child birth she had to climb from the delivery table to her cot without assistance and that when taken to her room she had to get off the cot and got into bed without assistance and that as a result hemorrhages set in and she very nearly lost her life.

Mrs. Daniel Howell was the next witness called and she testified that following two major operations she was allowed to lie for two days before her clothing, which by that time was bloodstained and matted with pus was changed. After the operation she said that she was left for hours without attention and that no nourishment had been given her between meals when she could take only liquid nourishment.

Daniel Howell was next called and testified that he had visited his wife at the hospital and that he had seen her when her night dress was soiled by the discharge from the tubes in her side and that no clean linen was furnished her for as long as two days at a time. Mr. Howell also testified that his daughter, Mrs. Smith, died in December, 1918, at the hospital of the influenza, and at that time an oxygen tank was not to be had in the hospital. He also spoke, as had other witnesses, of the noise of the nurses and their men friends which kept the patients awake at night.

The next witness called was Mrs. Coy, who was a patient in 1919, for an operation. She stated that bed pans were not emptied when used and that they would stand for some time. The food, she said, which was brought her was not good. Attention by a special nurse on another case was given here, she stated, a number of times, because the student nurses neglected to properly take care of her.

The next witness was Miss Naomi Hyland, a patient in the hospital in December, 1917, for an operation for removal of tonsils. She testified that following her operation at 11 o'clock in the morning she did not see a nurse until 3 o'clock in the afternoon and that if it had not been for her sister who was with her all the time in the hospital during and after the operation, she would have suffered considerably. She stated that until 6 o'clock in the evening she did not have a mouth wash. No attention was paid to her by the house nurses, it was said, when the bleeding condition of the throat should have been looked after. A special nurse on another case gave her some assistance, she testified.

Testimony of Dr. H. K. Yaggi

Envied the Tailor.

When Douglas Fairbanks was a little boy, five years old, he lived in Denver, and he was always sent to bed much earlier than he wanted to go. Opposite his bedroom was a tailor shop where the lights burned brightly a long time after Douglas went to sleep. He used to lie and watch the industrious tailor, and one day he surprised his father by saying that he knew what he wanted to do when he grew up: he would be a tailor.

"Why?" said his father.

"Because," said Douglas, "I could sit up then as long as I wanted to—all night if I pleased."

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

WORKS HARD TO AVERT FLU EPIDEMIC

Government and City Health Officials Warn People to Keep Clean.

Stay Away from People with Coughs and Colds.

"Avoid crowds if you want to avoid influenza," says Association for Improving the Conditions of New York.

Keep your hands clean, drink plenty of fresh water; sleep with windows open; eat three uniform meals a day including a good breakfast.

People who have catarrh or frequent colds invite Influenza, declares a prominent Kentucky druggist.

The membrane of the throat and nose is raw, sore and tender, and makes a lovely abiding place for germs to thrive and multiply.

He advises an inexpensive home-made remedy that will bring relief in less than a day and will stop all discharge and sooth and heal the inflamed membrane in a few days.

Thousands are making this beneficial remedy at home and anyone who has catarrh or a cold can do the same.

Pour three-quarters of an ounce of Mentholized Arcine into a pint bottle, then fill the bottle with water that has been boiled.

Gargle the throat as directed and snuff or spray the liquid into the nostrils twice daily. It's a simple way to get rid of cold and catarrh and keeps the nasal passage and throat clean and healthy.

Nearly all druggists dispense Mentholized Arcine in vials containing exactly three-quarters of an ounce, which is all you need to make a pint of this healthful medicine.

SHORT HEALTH TALK ON COLDS

Medical Science Has Proven that the common everyday cold is as dangerous as canned dynamite. Cold germs multiply by the millions and in turn develop into influenza-pneumonia germs.

The best way to treat a cold is to stimulate the entire system by starting the blood to rapidly circulate. If this is done you get the jump on the germ and invariably overpower its attack. The most effective course is to take a steaming hot cupful of Bulgarian Blood Tea with the juice of half a lemon. This hot medicinal tea not only starts the blood circulating, but cleanses the entire intestinal tract and bowels of stagnant body poisons, increases and strengthens the physical resistance and pulls you out of danger.

At the cost of a few cents you can obtain a box of Bulgarian Blood Tea from your druggist.

COUNTY SEAT

McNicol Takes Firm Stand

County Commissioner Patrick McNicol announced his plan for road improvement in Columbiana county today at the regular meeting of the board of county commissioners. Mr. McNicol stated in so far as he was concerned he would be opposed to the improvement of any roads where abutting owners expect large property damage by reason of change of grade along any proposed improvement. He stated that if the various township boards and those interested in road improvement in their respective communities could not come before the board with a waiver of damages, on the part of abutting owners he personally would be opposed to spending state or county moneys in that particular locality. Just as soon as a road is improved in any community land and property abutting upon the improvement is invariably enhanced to at least thirty-three and one-third per cent. It was his contention that if abutting owners were not content to make some sacrifice to get the improvement, in view of the great cost to the county, state and township, they should not be entitled to reap the benefits attendant upon having their roads improved.

To Repair Roads

The county commissioners are arranging to secure several carloads of slag to be unloaded at various stops on the Y. & O. where the same can be used to advantage in filling mud holes along the unimproved roads.

Trustees Seek Improvement

Trustees of Fairfield township and trustees of Elkrun township were before the board of county commissioners today in reference to the road improvement program in their respective townships.

Seek Allotment Approval

Application has been made by the Bell Park Land company of Columbiana asking that the county commissioners approve of their allotment which lies at the edge of the Columbiana village limits. The allotment includes several acres of land lying to the south of the village limits a part of which adjoining the Pennsylvania railroad tracks will be used by the Columbiana Boiler company in rebuilding their plant which was recently destroyed by fire. County commissioners will set a date in the future for passing upon the application.

City Watches Aurora

People of Lisbon and vicinity were out watching the northern lights, or properly speaking, the aurora borealis. No one can recall a more brilliant display of this electrical illumination. Starting early in the evening the shafts of light came up over the zenith and spread until they were two-thirds of the way around the horizon. The earth was lighted up almost as brilliantly as on a moonlight night. There was an old delusion that the lights were caused by sunshine upon the icebergs of the north, but now it is known that they are purely electrical, emanating from the region of the magnetic pole. Many persons still cling to the old superstition that they portend calamity.

Case Goes to Jury

The case of Harry Coy against Michael Fimu, of Salem, went to the jury at noon today. This case was tried before a justice and then went to the common pleas court where it was heard, Coy winning. An appeal was taken to the court of appeals which set aside the verdict and remanded the case for a rehearing.

Sold at Sheriff's Sale

The Francesco Vasco house and lot in Leetonia was sold at sheriff's sale Monday afternoon to Paul and Joseph Rance for $800. The sale was on a foreclosure proceeding by the Peoples Building and Loan company of Leetonia which held a mortgage against the property.

Driller Wins Verdict

The case of Arthur Cameron against the Meek Oil company, H. P. Dorman, J. G. Wheaton and W. M. Meek was concluded at noon Tuesday, the jury returning a verdict in favor of Cameron for $594, the amount claimed due for drilling an oil well in the Homeworth district in Knox township. Dorman and Wheaton were held for the amount and a separate verdict was returned relieving Meek from all responsibility.

SAFETY FIRST MINSTRELS AT OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT

The Safety First Minstrels will appear at the opera house tonight. This minstrel is home talent and will be up-to-date in every respect. The big noon-day parade today was an immense success. The parade would have been a credit to Al G. Field's minstrels. The minstrel is under the direction of F. B. Allen. The cast is headed by Mack McGuan, noted Irish tenor; Clyde Chain, late of John W. Vogle's Big City Minstrels; Stone & Conkle, premier ends; the Great King, magician, and many others too numerous to mention. This minstrel should be the best home talent show ever as yet to appear in Salem.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

ISLAND SAVED BY WOMEN

How the Female Population of Helgoland Upset Calculations of Danish Admiral.

Helgoland, the naval wall flower during the World war, had its fate decided, upon one memorable occasion, by the women of the island, according to a bulletin of the National Geographic society. About the time William Penn was settling Pennsylvania a Danish admiral captured the island's fishermen one night while they were placing their nets. He threatened to hold them as hostages until the island surrendered to Denmark. Wives, mothers and sisters arose and forced the Danish garrison to relinquish any claim upon Helgoland.

In the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries Helgoland was a center of the North sea herring fisheries. Then herring veered back to Scotland's coast and the islanders handed down a tale of the impiety by which they forfeited the boon. Until a few years ago horses were unknown to the island. One story has it that when an old woman saw an Englishman ride up the hills she dropped dead from the shock of what she believed was a supernatural creature.

HELD FAST TO THOSE FISH

Indianapolis Man Was Taking No Chances of Losing the Prizes He Had Secured.

Tom Genolin, of the railway mail service, tells a thrilling story of how once upon a time he was tempted and fell; how in the early hours of morning he slipped away to a "posted" stream and drew from thence five of the most beautiful bass ever seen. The climax of his story reads thus:

"The glorious day was peeping and creeping through the silent trees when I gathered up my bunch of beauties and started homeward. I had not gone far when I laid them in a clump of grass while I filled my pipe. When I started to pick them up again lo and behold they were gone. A slight stir under a nearby bush brought visions of some prowling thief and I threw myself prone upon the bush and clutched for the place where the fish might be. That is when I awoke and gathered myself up from the bedroom floor where I lay clutching a jangling alarm clock."

Mr. Genolin thus ends the story:

"The tragic and unbelievable part of my story is yet to be told. The day after the incident related I went to the pool concerning which I had dreamed and there I fished precisely as I fished in my dream and I caught five beautiful bass precisely as I had caught them in my dream and, lastly, returned home with them, but not once did I lay them down in a clump of grass."—Indianapolis News.

TESTIMONY OF DR. YAGGI

the idea that Salem was in dire need of an institution to care for the sick and suffering humanity, of our city. (Let me pause for one moment and pay homage to this gentleman, who has since passed to the "Great Beyond." I refer to our Rev. Mr. Simpson, of Salem).

A few years following, his origina' idea was taken up by a number of representative citizens and brought to maturity. Today, there stands on McKinley avenue a monument which represents approximately $300,000, which has been instrumental in relieving the sick and the suffering.

This institution of mercy, at the time of its birth, was the means of bringing about a great brotherhood between all classes of people. When the vision of our pioneer citizen was seen clearly by the people of Salem, it was but a short period of time until the necessary amount of $120,000 was raised in two short campaigns, to build and equip an institution which is exceeded by none of its kind in the country. Through the earnest efforts and generosity of not only a few but every man and woman, even many, I say, at a great sacrifice, the monument was built, dedicated and owned by every citizen of Salem who contributed, regardless of the amount.

Today, there exists a great turmoil within and without the institution, which has shaken the very foundations of our town. It has reached into the places of business; into our churches. It has reached into the factories. It has come into the homes where even family ties are broken; where the very foundations of our whole social life and friendships are affected. On the tip of every tongue of Salem, there is but one subject of discussion and that is—our hospital.

My purpose tonight, is to portray to the citizens of Salem, this vision of which I have a conviction; not only a conviction but the courage and determination of my conviction. This board of trustees has listened to serious charges, preferred against the management of the institution, presented by most noble men and women with no selfish motive in view but who, like others, have a conviction of that "High Ideal" for a better and bigger institution. I cannot add nor would I wish to take from the testimonies any of the truths that were placed before this board one week ago Friday night, and since.

At your last meeting, the situation made an acute turn which has made it possible for me to bring forth and delve into the depths of the causes of this monstrous feud which has fairly wrecked the institution for humanity. And this institution, as the chairman of this assembly stated at the last meeting, belongs not to Dr. Yaggi, not to Mr. Mullins, not to a few individuals of the board of trustees, not to any clique, but to each and every one who have contributed to the institution, regardless of the amount.

Our institution today belongs to the "good old soul" who gave her $4 seven years ago while standing at the washtub, to the "good old lady" who, personally, sacrificed the luxury of her coffee, to the "honorable man," who, today, labors in our factories, in our stores, on our streets, to the intelligent farmer and people of the surrounding community. We must not lose sight of this fact—that this institution belongs to the people of Salem, and it is to them, to whom I am now making my appeal; to them, before whom I am bringing my testimony. The meeting last Monday night plainly demonstrated that the people of Salem are a part of, if not the whole jury, to investigate and find the real truths and the real causes which have brought their institution under investigation

Now let me briefly review before you tonight, my ideas as to what caused, or which may be considered the beginning of this trouble.

Some eleven years ago, almost immediately after I had set foot upon this soil of Salem, there began an organized feud among the medical profession, most unfortunate for all of us who were members of the profession. This organization and its workings were recognized by myself within a short period of time after my arrival. This, I regretted very much and felt most keenly.

The course which I pursued is still evident in the minds of the profession today.

I owe it to the people of Salem, to the medical profession, as well as myself, to speak plainly of the actual facts as they presented themselves to me at that time.

To have you definitely understand what I mean by "an organized feud," let me state the following facts:

Some two years and a half after arriving in Salem, there came to me one of the honorable members of our profession (the same, of which, I believe, is true of each and every member of the profession.) He frankly and openly came to me in a most honorable manner and spoke frankly and freely of the definite organization which existed from the very beginning of my career in Salem. This honorable gentleman named the member of the profession who were in the organization and a part of it, stating that he, himself, was a member; that he, himself, personally, had said many unkind things about me, stating "he knew not why he had done so"; and, as a gentleman, stated that should I hear of anything that he had said or done, he wished me to know that he was sorry. The activities of the organization were further discussed and plainly brought forth.

At the end of our conversation I felt and I believe he felt, that we had come to a definite understanding of one another; convinced that both of us were trying to pursue the right course; both of us, I believe, were convinced that there was no great difference of opinion as to our ideals in the profession.

Later, there came to me still further evidences of this organization. There came to my office ,a few weeks later, a traveling salesman, representing a reputable drug firm, who entered my office and immediately told me his story, stating that I had the privilege of asking him to leave my office, after I had heard his story, which was as follows:

"When you first came to Salem, I was told by the members of the profession that should I call upon you for the sale of my goods, they, in turn would refuse to buy from me I, naturally, having a good trade with the other doctor" whom he named "acceded to their wishes and did not call upon you."

He regretted very much the circumstances apologized in a very gentlemanly manner and stated that it was my privilege to ask him to leave my office.

Later, there came to me another member of the profession of Salem frankly, honorably and truthfully stating, in brief, the same situation.

Recently, in fact since the crisis, there came to me another member of the profession, whose conversation was on the same lines as that of the gentleman of whom I have spoken.

This brief review are facts which let me state are but a few actual facts. I hope I shall be able to convince the board of trustees, as well as the public of Salem ,that this is perhaps a beginning of a personal feud against myself, which, today, is hidden behind the walls of your institution.

I am convinced today, as thoroughly as I was convinced when first entering the medical profession, that doctors, in general, are honorable men, whose training has taught them to use their training for the best interests of humanity, as well as for their own colleagues

Now let us turn back once again and briefly discuss another angle, another feud, let us call it, which I hope to be able to show the board of trustees, of Salem, and the citizens, is responsible in no small measure for the present unfortunate situation.

Some eleven years ago Salem lost a man from the profession whose great deeds and kindly acts linger in the memory of thousands of people of this town It was my privilege to know this "noble character" and to have learned of his wonderful work in your midst. Today, there stands a monument, dedicated to his memory in your institution, and it is fitting and proper that this should be. I refer to Dr. Anderson.

Within a few days after the death of Dr. Anderson, members of his family telegraphed me to come to Salem and interview them regarding Dr. Anderson's practice. (I had just completed my hospital training and had decided to remain in the city.) After counseling with my preceptor, he advised that I should go and make an investigation of the situation This I did.

At this time I was told by Mary Anderson that no physician in Salem was worthy of her father's position and that, in view of the fact that her father had spoken to her personally in the highest of terms of me, they decided to ask me to come to Salem.

After agreeing to pay the Anderson estate the sum of $4,000 for their good will only (which I afterwards did in full), I decided to cast my lot with the citizens of Salem and practice the profession which I so earnestly love and enjoy.

About two weeks after the death of Dr. Anderson I was in his office, attempting to occupy the position once filled by him. As a young man, inexperienced in private practice, I realized that it was a difficult matter to fill the position of so able a man as Dr. Anderson. However, the people of Salem were very kind and considerate, and I soon developed a host of friends, as well as a lucrative practice.

A few years after my coming to Salem, and after I had paid for Dr. Anderson's practice in full ,there arose a business difference between the Anderson family and myself, which has been used to my personal and business detriment, and has now, I feel, intruded itself into this investigation.

I shall now lay before this board and the public, the facts as they appear to me. Again, I wish to state that I will be compelled to speak frankly and plainly in order that each and every person may fully grasp my idea. There is but one vision that I have seen from the very beginning of our hospital. A vision, of which I have a conviction; a conviction of which I have the courage to come forth and present to the people of Salem, not from a selfish standpoint, not for the interest of Dr. Yaggi, personally, not for any clique. I come before this audience not for a selfish purpose but, let me make it plain, I come before you for the best interests of the Salem hospital, which today is not serving the purpose that the people of Salem have intended it to do.

In order that we may grasp the entire situation, we must realize that it reaches beyond the charges against the superintendent of the hospital and involves not only individuals but all of us. I trust that I may make it plain, as I present my charges, as to my interpretation of the real cause of this trouble under investigation.

Let me make it clear to this audience, that I was the first one to present charges against the management and members of the board of trustess. Let me make it plain to this audience that I had nothing to do with the charges presented by the nurses; that I had nothing to do with the articles that appeared in the paper by the citizens of Salem.

I must make it definitely and clearly understood by the board of trustees and by the citizens of Salem, that I am not before you tonight asking for a single selfish thing. I am only asking for the things that our boys died for in France, for the ideals and the emblem of our Flag, which are "Equal Rights."

I am going to show to you tonight that under the present management and present board of trustees ,these things have not bten.

I have been termed by a member of the board of trustees as a "Coward and cur hiding behind women's skirts". I have been charged by the attorney of the oppesing element, as a "coward". This, however, I pass by. I am here tonight to show the people of Salem that I am neither a "coward" nor a "cur.". I am here to show that I come before you for one thing and that is—to make the Salem hospital a better place, a bigger hospital, a standard hospital, whose good, whose influences and whose power shall extend not only within the bounds of this small town, but that her high ideals and lofty methods may be of help to other institutions of mercy and institutions for humanity.

As I present my charges to this board, I lay aside all personal feeling and hope to bring before you facts which will enable us all to save the institution. I do this not in behalf of the wealthy or the man of means who can go elsewhere and seek relief for his sufferings, who is able to employ the best skilled, the best trained nurses; to enter the best institution. I am here before you tonight in the interest of that man and that woman, who perhaps good fortune has not followed, but who, in turn, deserve the best care, the best scientific help that the medical and the surgical profession may give to them, regardless of the cost. That the poor man may have "Equal Rights, Equal Privileges" with the wealthy man of your city. After all, this institution belongs, let me say, almost entirely to the men who have sacrificed to make their contributions for its erection and support. After we have all come to a realization of this fact, we have solved the difficulty. We have caught "The Vision" for which a hospital is built. It is not a fort for a personal feud or a professional one to hide behind and fight against other members of the profession. This attitude is entirely wrong. The institution is not conceived for this purpose. It has missed its "Goal" and it behooves the people of Salem to know of these facts and remedy them.

Let me further state that I hold no personal grievances against any member of the profession; that it is not my desire in any way, to injure or to overthrow his position or confidence which the public may have in him. I believe the doctors of Salem are men of intelligence, of high ideals, who have the best interests of humanity at heart. This, I am sure is the teaching of every medical school. This is the one ideal that all doctors are taught.

There seems to have arisen among us doctors of Salem, however, a feeling which, I regret to say, is unbecoming to the medical profession. Let me further say that I admit my shortcomings and state that whatever evidences concerning me will be brought forth on the other side in this hearing, they may be attributed to mistakes of the "head" and not of the "heart."

Let me express myself regarding the profession of Salem, in the terms of the poet:

"There is so much bad in the best
of us,
There is so much good in the worst
of us,
That it hardly behooves any of us
To talk about the rest of us."

Before I proceed with my charges let me at this point, stop for one moment and pay my compliments to the public for their interest in the institution; for their loyalty; for their high ideals, which, I believe each and every one are working for, not from the selfish standpoint, but from their honest convictions and desire to bring about a better situation in our institution. I can not name each and every one of you, but I mention particularly, the "noble women" who so earnestly have presented their sincere statements to you; also the doctors.

I shall now prefer my charges against the management of the institution.

The superintedent of the hospital, Miss Templeton, has been with us since the opening of the institution. You have already heard the testimony of the nurses, doctors and patients. I shall simply dwell upon a few more points which I think are essential to a definite understanding of the hospital situation.

Let me state, from the very date the institution's doors were opened, six years ago, I, personally, have not had the co-operation as it should be, of the superintendent of the institution. She personally admitted to Dr. Mitchell, that she had recognized this fend, this faction, one month after her arrival, which was before the institution was opened for patients. She further admitted that she later allied herself with the faction previously mentioned. From the very beginning she did not co-operate with me and I felt that she was opposing me.

The second day after the institution was opened, she stood at the foot of the bed of one of my patients and openly condemned my preceptor to my patient, and stated "that my preceptor's boys were just the same as he was."

When your institution was opened, we were all most enthusiastic. We endeavored, in every way, to help and co-operate with the superintendent, but I immediately found that she was not willing to co-operate, at least not with me. I had spent a great deal of time and energy in collecting for her systems, card catalogues, charts, etc., to help her start. Instantly, I say, there was a feeling which was not for the best interests of the hospital. However, we went ahead, hoping that time would bring us closer together, I will say, at various intervals during the past six years, I have seen a spirit of willingness to co-operate but it was of short duration.

My impression from her constantly was that she feared that I would be dictating the policies of the institution. I have labored under the most adverse, under the most petty annoyances for the past six years. I can frankly say that I have never felt that the superintendent of the hospital was co-operating for the best interests of the patient and the institution as far as I was concerned.

You have had presented to you in a clear and precise manner, a number of charges of inefficiency and lack of co-operation on the part of the superintendent and nurses, by my colleague, Dr. Mitchell. Those of you who were present heard his charges distinctly and clearly, and those who were not present have read them in your daily press. Let me say frankly that there are innumerable things which could be enumerated but which time will not permit.

We must remember that this lack of co-operation on the part of the superintendent with me and my colleagues, is of a long duration. On occasions reports have come to me where the superintendent entered the room of my own patients, in my absence and spoke slightingly of me as a surgeon.

Often on various occasions when demands have been made by me and my assistants for better conditions, the head nurses as well as the pupil nurses, have stated that they had made my requests known to the superintendent and had been refused. On repeated occasions they have stated that the superintendent would say in reply, "Pay no attention to him, he is a crank." epeatedly, on numerous occasions, have the pupil nurses come to me, complaining bitterly of the manner in which Miss Templeton would reply to them when asked to comply with certain requests I have made.

I am not here tonight making my complaint from a personal standpoint, but I wish to show to the board of trustees and the citizens of Salem that this is not the dignified atmosphere in which pupil nurses should be trained. Their ethical training commands respect for those in authority.

While I was operating on Mrs. Potts your superintendent was not in the operating room. We were operating in the presence of two pupil nurses and two doctors, the superintendent being somewhere in the hospital but not in the operating room.

After the accident occurred and I was leaving the hospital, I passed the office and your superintendent sat at her desk and sneered and laughed as I passed out. Not one single word did she ask about the accident; not one single word did she ask, as to how it occurred or whose fault it was. During the entire investigation on the part of the coroner, not one single word, and at no time did the superintendent approach me, as a physician, asking how or what happened or what should be done, but stated openly that I was to blame and no one else. This, when she was not near the operating room. I mention this point to show her lack of co-operation during a crisis. She sneered and laughed, instead of attempting to learn the real facts and finding out the cause and placing it where it belonged. Later she declared to the editor of The News that I was in no way responsible for the accident and she was sorry that it had happened.

Now I shall proceed to my fourth charge, which is really against the board of trustees, as a whole. I have no charges to make except perhaps a measure of inattention to the affairs of the hospital, which has made these deplorable conditions possible, but I believe that two or more of the board have been perniciously active and have lent aid and encouragement to the superintendent in her conduct toward me, in particular.

When this unfortunate accident occurred, we will all recall that the county coroner was called, which was perfectly right. The coroner came and made an investigation, and as he left my office stated to me personally that his only verdict could be that it was an unavoidable accident.

This, however, did not seem to please a certain member of the board of trustees, who took it upon himself, without consulting all members of the board, to advise the coroner to return for a re-investigation of the accident. This the coroner did, at the request of L. P. Metzger. The coroner's second investigation was made and his verdict was "carelessness on the part of the surgeon."

On the day the verdict was handed to the public press, I was notified of this verdict. Immediately there collected a number of my friends in the office of W. H. Mullins.

Mr. Mullins, in person, called up Dr. Van Fossan, the coroner, and as an active member of the board of trustees, and speaking for Mr. Deming, president of the institution, who was confined to his home on account of illness, requested that he return to Salem for a third investigation of the accident, stating that he, Mr. Mullins, wished the blame to be placed where it belonged. This the coroner refused to do.

Then the vice president of the board of trustees, Judge Boone, in the presence of eight or ten gentlemen, took the phone and asked Dr. Van Fossan to return to Salem for a third investigation. The vice president of the board of trustees stated that they had further evidence which he believed would change his verdict. This he refused to do.

A third party, taking the phone, asked the coroner if he had made certain investigations, and he said that he had not. This party requested that the coroner return, as he had evidence which would change the entire verdict, evidence which he, Dr. Van Fossan, had not taken. The coroner still refused to reopen the case.

Two weeks following, after the charges were made against the institution by myself, Mr. Metzger took it upon himself to call a meeting "in order to settle," as he stated, "this hospital controversy."

(Here were presented Mr. Gibson's affidavits and others.)

I am here tonight to charge that this member, who thus demonstrated his activities in this hospital controversy is not co-operating for the best interests of the institution. I leave it to the public to judge.

I now come to present my charges against another member of the board of trustees, Mary Anderson Dunn. She, too, has shown a great activity in the present controversy.

As I stated previously some six years ago there arose out of a purely business transaction an unkindly feeling between us. Let me state that since that time we have never spoken in a friendly way. From the very opening day of your institution, Mrs. Dunn has been secretary of the board of trustees. I have always felt that she has not been co-operating with me for the best interests of the institution. I do not object to those who feel unkindly toward me expressing themselves freely and openly, but I do object to being criticized in the manner in which Mrs. Dunn has seen fit to criticise me, personally and professionally, and to this hospital being used to further personal malevolence.

Three years, perhaps, ago, this member, secretary of the board of trustees, attempted to give the wrong impression to the family of a patient of mine, who had a serious accident three or four days after his operation. In a delirum the patient plunged forth from the bed and broke open his wound. She personally called the family by telephone and made this statement to a daughter of the patient, who later died, stating, "Of course you know what happened to your father in the hospital?"

This I state before you tonight, as coming from the secretary of the board of trustees of your hospital, each and everyone can see my viewpoint, is not co-operation on the part of the member of the board of trustees for the best interests of the patient, for the hospital and for the doctors.

I have previously stated in my testimony this evening that I have had but one vision and one ambition, and that was to make our institution a standard institution. I have gone to members of the board personally and talked to them earnestly in the best interest of the institution. On one occasion, some three years ago, I asked for a special permission to meet with the board in order to make suggestions to improve the standard of our institution. I was granted the permission to meet with this board and at this meeting I laid before the board a standard plan which I believed was for the best interests of the institution, in view of the fact that in the not far distant future they would be compelled to adopt the standard.

I stated to the board that the records of our institution, were incomplete and absolutely worthless and contained nothing of value to the institution, nothing of help to the patients nor to medical science.

I requested the board of trustees to hire a young man to act as medical intern of the institution; whose duties would be to make definite histories; make physical examinations; do all laboratory work; write up pre-operative and post-operative diagnoses; do the pathological work in the laboratory which had been furnished to us by our generous friend Mr. Mullins. This physician, I stated, should be at the service of every physician who practiced in the institution. He should be at the command of every physician to do the laboratory work and make every scientific test which would be beneficial to the patients

Shock-Absorbers For False Teeth

Cleveland, O., Feb. 3.—Non-Skid Shock Absorbers for false teeth are the latest thing. Heretofore the principle of shock absorbers, non-skid tires, and rubber heels, has been limited in application but now a Cleveland chemical concern advertises a powder which sprinkled upon "store teeth," forms a smooth cushion, holds them firmly in place, and gives a "non-skid" effect while they romp over the toughest roasting ears of corn and chew the stickiest candy.

One who has lost his natural teeth can supply himself with this antiseptic, adhesive comfort powder—Corega—at a drug store, and proceed to laugh and sneeze, crack nuts and do other hazardous things without risk of shaking his prized false teeth from their upper and lower berths.—(Advt.)

MORE RED BLOOD AND STEADIER NERVES FOR RUN DOWN PEOPLE

The World Demands, Strong, Vigorous, Keen-Minded, Men and Women

It has been said of Americans that they work their habits overtime.

Many become nervous and inefficient by overwork.

By worry, despondency, social affairs, robbing brain and body of needed rest; excessive use of tobacco, indulgence in strong alcoholic drink—excesses of every kind that burn up the vital powers so necessary in these trying times to make both men and women fit to be of help to themselves and others.

It is time to be temperate in all things. The man or woman with impaired nerves caused by impoverished blood lacks vigor, the ambition, the endurance and the keen mind of those who avoid excesses.

Timidness, despondency, fear, trembling hands, want of confidence and even cowardliness, are due in a large measure to abused nerves.

People with plenty of red blood corpuscles and strong, healthy nerves have no desire to shirk work and lean on others for guidance and support.

There is hardly a nerve-shattered man or woman (unless of an organic disease) in America today who cannot become alert and clear in mind; vigorous and energetic in body in a very few weeks and at trifling cost.

To become strong and ambitious, to feel that work is not drudgery; to have steady nerves, abundance of red blood and power of endurance; to be not only a man but as men now go, a superman, you must take seven tablets of Bio-feren every day for seven days—and take them faithfully.

Take two after each meal and one at bedtime and after seven days take one only after meal until the supply is exhausted.

Then if you feel that any claim made in this special notice is untrue—if your nerves are not twice as steady as before; if you do not feel ambitious, more vigorous and keen-minded, the pharmacist who dispensed the tablets to you will gladly hand you back just what you paid for them.

Bio-feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, rundown, weak, anaemic men and women ever offered direct through druggists and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

OIL LEASE BILL PASSED AT LAST

NATIONAL RESOURCES ON GOVERNMENT LAND WILL NOW BE DEVELOPED RAPIDLY.

COAL IS ITS CHIEF FEATURE

Conditions Under Which This Fuel and Oil May Be Prospected For and Taken From the Public Domain.

Washington.—After some years of parleying congress has finally agreed on the conditions under which the government will permit the mining of coal, oil, gas, phosphate and sodium on the public domain. The bill agreed to is commonly known as the oil leasing bill. It is the expectation of congress that under the legislation the natural resources to which it relates will be developed rapidly. The attempt to fix conditions under which the government would permit the taking of coal, oil, gas, etc., from lands owned by it was started away back in the Roosevelt administration. In every congress since that time the subject has been up. A pending piece of legislation relates to the development of waterpower on the public domain. It seems likely that this legislation will also be perfected at this session.

Perhaps most interest in the legislation that has just been completed centers in the conditions under which coal is to be taken from the public domain. All the arrangements for taking coal as well as the other deposits covered by the legislation will have to be made with the secretary of the interior. The first step toward the development of the government-owned coal land will be to subdivide this land into leasing tracts of 40 acres each or multiples thereof. In no case will anyone leasing tract contain more than 2,560 acres. Leases are to be awarded by competitive bidding. There are some provisos or exceptions written into the legislation. For instance, where prospecting or exploratory work is necessary to determine the existence or workability of coal deposits, the secretary of the interior may issue a prospecting permit for a term of two years for not exceeding 2,560 acres; and if within that period the permittee shows to the secretary that the land contains coal in commercial quantities, he is to be entitled to a lease.

Restrictions on Railroads.

No lease of coal land is to be approved or issued until after a notice of thirty days has been given in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the lands or deposits are situated. There is also a provision that no railroad shall be permitted to hold a lease to mine coal on the public domain except for its own use; and no railroad company can receive more than one permit or lease for each 200 miles of its railroad line within the state in which the coal land is situated.

The most of the delay in getting through this legislation was due to the inability to agree on the compensation which the government should exact. As finally agreed on the bill provides that when the government decides to lease a tract of coal land, it shall announce in advance of the offering of the leases the royalty that will be charged. This royalty is not to be less than 5 cents a ton, payable at the end of each third month succeeding that of the extraction of the coal from the mine and an annual rental payable at the date of the lease and annually thereafter on the lands or coal deposits covered by the lease at such rate as may be fixed by the secretary of the interior prior to offering the lease. This rental is not to be less than 25 cents an acre for the first year, not less than 50 cents an acre for the second, third, fourth and fifth years, and not less than $1 an acre for each year thereafter during the continuance of the lease.

Coal Leases Indeterminate.

Leases are to be for indeterminate periods on condition of diligent development and continued operation of the mine, except when operation shall be interrupted by strikes. At the end of each 20-year period the secretary of the interior may require a readjustment of terms and conditions.

As to the oil and gas, the legislation provides that the secretary of the interior may grant to any qualified applicant the exclusive right for a period not exceeding two years to prospect for oil and gas upon not to exceed 2,560 acres of government land. On establishing to the satisfaction of the interior department that he has located valuable deposits of oil or gas the permittee is to be entitled to a lease for one-fourth of the land embraced in his prospecting permit. The lease is to be for a term of 20 years upon a royalty of 5 per cent of the value of the production and the annual payment in advance of a rental of $1 an acre, the rental paid for any one year to be credited against the royalties as they agree for that year. The permittee is to be entitled to a preference right to a lease for the remainder of the land in his prospecting permit at a royalty of not less than 12½ per cent of the value of the production. Phosphates and oil shale and sodium are to be taken from the public domain on the same general terms that apply to coal and oil and gas.

GOOD EXERCISE IS MOTORING

Physician Seems to Have Made Out a Good Case for His Side of Argument.

Dr. Henry Williams, in an article in Motors, combats the theory that motoring is reducing our opportunities for exercise. He says its benefits are threefold—physical, mental and volitional. The buffeting of winds and the inhalation of large quantities of oxygen stimulate digestion, assimilation and excretion. This is true of the person who merely sits, as well as of him who drives. The latter, however, benefits directly. Doctor Williams says: "When you drive a car 40 or 50 miles over average American roads, or a fraction of that distance in any city, you give your arms and torso a course of purposeful calisthenics that redounds directly to the benefit of your muscles and arteries and heart, and indirectly, but no less significantly, to the benefit of your digestive organs of elimination as well as the nervous system."

Another Statue.

With the unveiling of the figure of Gen. William Shepherd in the community of Westfield, Mass., a worthy figure is added to the American population of revolutionary heroes whose memory is perpetuated by a public statue. General Shepherd, before the Revolution, had taken part in the "Old French war," which justified Macaulay in saying that because Frederick the Great had decided to rob a neighbor, "red men scalped each other by the great lakes of North America." He began as a private soldier and rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel under Washington, and later commanded a brigade under Lafayette. Individuals have sometimes questioned the utility of public statues; yet in this case, as in many another, the statue defeats the common forgetfulness of past deeds that has found expression in the old saying, "Out of sight out of mind."

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Charlie Chaplins Wife Is Some Spender

Los Angeles, Calif., March 22—(Special.) — Charlie Chaplin, in a statement issued today, made a complete denial of the charges of his wife, Mildred Harris Chaplin, that he had failed to support her during their married life.

The statement was confined solely to finances in the Chaplin household, making no mention of Mrs. Chaplain's charges of cruelty and desertion nor any counter allegations. It stated that Chaplin is in possession of $50,000 in cancelled checks, which were paid by him and expended by his wife, in addition to her salary of $1,000 weekly.

When shown the statement, Mrs. Chaplain admitted that her comedian husband had cancelled checks to that figure named, but said that he "ought to be ashamed to mention the amount."

"This money was paid out for household expenses," she said.

"But it covers the period of our entire married life for his expenses as well as my own. I paid for my own clothing. Fifty thousand in two years! Goodness! What I made was my only salvation. I did not intend to press non-support charges against Mr. Chaplin in my divorce suit, but I shall do so now."

WOMEN SEEKING EQUAL CHANCES

THEY WISH SAME OPPORTUNITY AS MEN IN THE SERVICE OF THE GOVERNMENT.

MOVEMENT WELL UNDER WAY

Congress May Amend the Old Statute Which Permits Department Heads to Bar Either Sex From a Civil Service Examination.

Washington.—Women, through the woman's bureau of the department of labor, are moving to obtain equality of opportunity in the government service. Last fall this bureau arranged to make a study of positions in the government service open by examination to women as compared with those closed to women. The study was begun in September. On November 5, ten days after receiving a partial report from the bureau, the civil service commission passed a ruling opening all examinations to both women and men, leaving it to the discretion of the appointing officers to specify the sex desired when requesting certification of eligibles.

On November 19 a bill was introduced in the senate by Senator McLean of Connecticut, amending the statute now in force which dates back to 1870 and provides that, at the discretion of the head of any department, women may be appointed to any clerkship in the government service. The amendment provides that in requesting a register of eligibles for appointment the nominating and appointing officials shall not specify sex unless sex is a physical barrier to the proper performance of the duties to be fulfilled. Thus one of the ends desired has already been almost completely accomplished.

Regulated by Old Statute.

The largest employer of labor in the country and the employer of the greatest variety of labor, the United States government, has as its employment agent the civil service commission. This commission is responsible for securing the proper person for almost every position in the government service except those of unskilled labor in some states, and those filled by presidential appointment. The appointment of women to any government position is still regulated by a statute written in 1870, which declared that women may in the discretion of the head of any department be appointed to any of the clerkships therein authorized by law. From this statute has sprung the custom of opening examinations to both sexes or closing them to either sex at the discretion of the head of any department, regardless of the fact that neither rule nor law covers the examination itself.

Barring women or men from any examination, however, bars them not only from the special occupation for which the examination is given but from all kindred occupations. All other bureaus which may require services of the same or like quality as those specified in the examination are confined to a register made up exclusively of one sex when the opposite sex may be as acceptable or preferable; or they must ask for a special examination in which no sex line is drawn; or they must seek the woman or man desired among those already in the government service. The bureau asking for the examination in the first instance, may, without question, require the services of men only or women only, but by closing the examination to either sex, all other bureaus are restricted in the choice of service or forced to call for special examinations entailing an additional expenditure of time and money.

Women Often Excluded.

From January 1, 1919, to June 30, 1919, the civil service commission held examinations to obtain eligible people for vacancies in 260 different types of positions, exclusive of manufacturing and mechanical positions in the ordnance factories, quartermaster depots, and navy yards and exclusive of unskilled labor positions. Women were excluded from examinations for 59.6 per cent of these occupations, tests for 155 of the occupations being open to men only. In the scientific and professional positions women were excluded from examination for over 64 per cent of the positions. In the mechanical and manufacturing services 87 per cent of the occupations were closed to women. Tests for clerical services of all kinds, however, except seven (15.9 per cent) were open to women.

Of the 260 occupational examinations, the per cent closed to women, distributed according to service for which examinations were held, was found to be as follows: Biological science, 61.5; physical science, 64.5; medical science, 75; engineering, 67.5; economic and sociological, 100; miscellaneous professional (editorial work, teaching, and nursing), 30; managerial and other expert office service, 25; clerical, 15.9; mechanical and manufacturing, 87; domestic, reformatory, and rural, 83.3.

Nearly 38 per cent of the examinations were open to men and women; 2.7 per cent to women only; and 59.6 per cent to men only.

that came within our institution. I did this in the best interest, first of the patient, second of the hospital and third of the physicians.

I stated frankly to the board of trustees that I realized that it probably would mean paying a doctor at least $150 per month. I added that volunteered to pay one-half of that doctor's salary, and I did not ask any selfish thing, but stated that I was willing that he should be at the service of every physician who practiced in our hospital.

After I had finished my suggestion to the board of trustees, immediately this member, the secretary of the board, arose to her feet and opposed the idea, stating 'that a nurse would be much preferable and much more satisfactory;' the idea of a house physician was voted down. That this was a mistake has since been admitted, as an intern is to be employed in the near future—of the standardization of the hospital, which has been determined upon.

This, I state before you tonight, as coming from the secretary of the board of trustees of your hospital—each and everyone can see my viewpoint—is not co-operation on the part of the member of the board of trustees for the best interests of the patients, for the hospital and for the doctors. These things can not exist within an institution. I wish to make it plain "that a house divided against itself can not stand." The institution built on these principles must fall. It can not succeed!

I shall now come to my charges against the board as a whole. I must say, frankly, that the entire board of trustees, as a number of them have admitted to me personally are not cognizant to their duties as members of the board of trustees.

May I not say that this board has not taken the profession, which is the life of their institution into their confidence? I believe that I can state frankly that this board has never called the medical profession of Salem for a conference, for the best interests of the institution. I do not believe that this has been fair to the doctors of Salem.

I do believe that the board of trustees has not heretofore realized the full responsibility of their position.

I believe that a large majority of the board have judged the success of our institution by the monthly financial report.

You have listened to a number of serious charges against the management, as well as certain members of the board. You are going to listen to the defense on the other side. I am satisfied that the investigation will mean nothing but good for the institution. I have come before this board tonight with no personal malice against a single member of the board or the superintendent of the hospital. I have come to you frankly, openly, truthfully, and expressed my convictions. I have done it, as I stated previously, for the best interest of humanity, for the best interest of the hospital, and I trust that the evidence, which I have given will be received in the spirit in which it has been given.

I thank you.
